The Holy Innocents

Welcome to our churches today.

If you have time afterwards, please stay for refreshments.

*At the Distribution of Communion all are welcome to come to the altar rail
to receive a blessing or, if baptised, the Communion.*

Children are welcome at all our services, and there are soft toys and children's books at the back of the church for their use.

Next week's Readings

Isaiah 60. 1 - 6

Psalms 72. 10 - 15

Ephesians 3. 1 - 12

Matthew 2. 1 - 12

The Curate writes:

Do you know that feeling when you just had an argument or disagreement with someone either in the street, driving the car, on the phone or even in Church and you wish you had said that or said this? In the heat of the moment you can't find the words and it is only as you replay the altercation slowly in your mind afterwards that you can bring to mind the perfect cutting words that would have seen you victorious from the exchange. Likewise there are times when we find the strength to stand up for someone or do the right thing - when we say afterwards - I don't know where that came from. If you're like me - I've done and still do both. On Boxing Day we celebrated the feast of St Stephen the first Christian Martyr. St Stephen (Acts 7) is confronted with the hottest altercation. He was pulled in front of the Jewish authorities and accused of blasphemy. St Stephen did not struggle like us to do find the right cutting words for his accusers, but he does find the strength to do the right thing. He delivers a long speech defending Jesus and when he is condemned for this and is being stoned - he still does the right thing - he asks for his killers to be forgiven. So maybe if we allow Jesus at the front of our minds, like St Stephen, we will more often than not be wondering where we found the strength to do or say the right thing - rather than thinking I wished I had said this or that put down. Maybe when we can't find the right cutting words we are being protected from ourselves.

Christmas Blessings - Steve

READINGS for the day .

Collect:

Heavenly Father, whose children suffered at the hands of Herod, though they had done no wrong; by the suffering of your Son and by the innocence of our lives frustrate all evil designs and establish your reign of justice and peace; through Jesus Christ your Son our Lord, who is alive and reigns with you, in the unity of the Holy Spirit, one God, now and for ever.
Amen.

FIRST READING

Jeremiah 31. 15 - 17

Reading from the Book of the Prophet Jeremiah.

Thus says the Lord: A voice is heard in Ramah, lamentation and bitter weeping. Rachel is weeping for her children; she refuses to be comforted for her children, because they are no more. Thus says the Lord: Keep your voice from weeping, and your eyes from tears; for there is a reward for your work, says the Lord: they shall come back from the land of the enemy; there is hope for your future, says the Lord: your children shall come back to their own country.

PSALM 124

SECOND READING

1 Corinthians 1. 26 - 29

A Reading from Paul's First Letter to the Corinthians.

Consider your own call, brothers and sisters: not many of you were wise by human standards, not many were powerful, not many were of noble birth. But God chose what is foolish in the world to shame the wise; God chose what is weak in the world to shame the strong; God chose what is low and despised in the world, things that are not, to reduce to nothing things that are, so that no one might boast in the presence of God.

GOSPEL

Matthew 2. 13 - 18

A Reading from the Gospel according to Matthew.

Now after they had left, an angel of the Lord appeared to Joseph in a dream and said, 'Get up, take the child and his mother, and flee to Egypt, and remain there until I tell you; for Herod is about to search for the child, to destroy him.' Then Joseph got up, took the child and his mother by night, and went to Egypt, and remained there until the death of Herod. This was to fulfil what had been spoken by the Lord through the prophet, 'Out of Egypt I have called my son.' When Herod saw that he had been tricked by the wise men, he was infuriated, and he sent and killed all the children in and around Bethlehem who were two years old or under, according to the time that he had learned from the wise men. Then was fulfilled what had been spoken through the prophet Jeremiah: 'A voice was heard in Ramah, wailing and loud lamentation, Rachel weeping for her children; she refused to be consoled, because they are no more.'

Post Communion

Lord Jesus Christ, in your humility you have stooped to share our human life with the most defenceless of your children: may we who have received these gifts of your passion rejoice in celebrating the witness of the holy innocents to the purity of your sacrifice made once for all upon the cross; for you are alive and reign, now and for ever. Amen.

We will remember them !

On New Years Day the bell ringers will commemorate and remember the death of the 2nd person listed on the war memorial in St Nicholas. Unlike 'our' first casualty, Alan Parsons (died 01/01/1915) was by comparison a very ordinary person; one of the many thousands of ordinary people who would die over the coming years. It's unclear whether his death shortly after arriving in France was due directly to enemy action, later as a result of wounds, or as a result of illness that killed so many during the war. Nevertheless it was of great significance to his widowed mother Emma who was then postmistress in Three Bridges; she sacrificed three sons by the end of the war; Alan, Douglas and William (who is one of those buried in Worth churchyard with a CWGC headstone). She gathered together the sum of 4s 11d (that's 4 shillings and 11 pence or less than 25p for the youngsters) to have the personal message 'Peace Perfect Peace' engraved on his gravestone at 31/2 pence per letter; a message she would use again a few years later on William's headstone.

We are pleased to announce the birth of Georgina Rose Margó to Fay (née Sanders) & Oriol – on December 14th 2014.

Lord, your Son taught us that to welcome a child is to welcome Him. Today we pray for children at risk on the streets, those here in England and on war torn streets of the world. Help us to see these lost, lonely and abused children through your eyes and to find ways to help them and bring them to safety. Amen.
