There are a number of situations recounted in the Gospels in which Christ confronts mental illness. His association with this causes many, including the religious establishment, to question Christ's sanity itself and to accuse him of being in league with the Devil – the supposed cause of mental aberration and illness. Christ demolishes that illogicality by pointing out that the Devil (Beelzebul) would not work against himself because that is self-destructive. He is further accused of having 'an unclean spirit' but uses a similar argument to refute the supposition that he is working against the Holy Spirit itself. Why would Christ work against aspects of the divinity he shared with his Father and the Holy Spirit? Such a trinitarian relationship is a fundamental part of an understanding of the Christian God and, as such, takes precedence over any other relationship, including familial ties.

These issues have the potential to distort perceptions and Christ was at pains to protect his – and our – relationship with God from becoming enmeshed in any such distortion. God enters into every aspect of human experience but we need to be careful to recognise what is divine in the midst of tensions and turmoil in our lives.

It is good that we have slowly moved to an acceptance of the varying nature of mental illness. Arguably, we are in danger of labelling normal changes of mood and wider emotional currents as 'mental health' issues. Tensions of mood are inevitable when pressures assail us and we give thanks during this period of the commemoration of the 80th anniversary of 'D' Day that the appalling difficulties encountered by those who were part of the invasion force and, indeed, those Germans whose duty was to resist them, were contained by the resilience that they showed.

Collect

Faithful Creator, whose mercy never fails: deepen our faithfulness to you and to your living Word, Jesus Christ our Lord.

Amen

Reading Genesis 3.8-15

They heard the sound of the Lord God walking in the garden at the time of the evening breeze, and the man and his wife hid themselves from the presence of the Lord God among the trees of the garden. But the Lord God called to the man, and said to him, 'Where are you?' He said, 'I heard the sound of you in the garden, and I was afraid, because I was naked; and I hid myself.' He said, 'Who told you that you were naked? Have you eaten from the tree of which I commanded you not to eat?' The man said, 'The woman whom you gave to be with me, she gave me fruit from the tree, and I ate.' Then the Lord God said to the woman, 'What is this that you have done?' The woman said, 'The serpent tricked me, and I ate.' The Lord God said to the serpent, 'Because you have done this, cursed are you among all animals and among all wild creatures; upon your belly you shall go, and dust you shall eat all the days of your life. I will put enmity between you and the woman, and between your offspring and hers; he will strike your head, and you will strike his heel.'

Reading 2 Corinthians 4.13-5.1

But just as we have the same spirit of faith that is in accordance with scripture - 'I believed, and so I spoke' - we also believe, and so we speak, because we know that the one who raised the Lord Jesus will raise us also with Jesus, and will bring us with you into his presence. Yes, everything is for your sake, so that grace, as it extends to more and more people, may increase thanksgiving, to the glory of God.

So we do not lose heart. Even though our outer nature is wasting away, our inner nature is being renewed day by day. For this slight momentary affliction is preparing us for an eternal weight of glory beyond all measure, because we look not at what can be seen but at what cannot be seen; for what can be seen is temporary, but what cannot be seen is eternal.

For we know that if the earthly tent we live in is destroyed, we have a building from God, a house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens.

Gospel Mark 3.20-35

FOR OUR LIGHT AND MOMENTARY TROUBLES ARE ACHIEVING FOR US
AN ETERNAL GLORY THAT FAR OUTWEIGHS THEM ALL.

and the crowd came together again, so that they could not even eat. When his family heard it, they went out to restrain him, for people were saying, 'He has gone out of his mind.' And the scribes who came down from Jerusalem said, 'He has Beelzebul, and by the ruler of the demons he casts out demons.' And he called them to him, and spoke to them in parables, 'How can Satan cast out Satan? If a kingdom is divided against itself, that kingdom cannot stand. And if a house is divided against itself, that house will not be able to stand. And if Satan has risen up against himself and is divided, he cannot stand, but his end has come. But no one can enter a strong man's house and plunder his property without first tying up the strong man; then indeed the house can be plundered.

'Truly I tell you, people will be forgiven for their sins and whatever blasphemies they utter; but whoever blasphemes against the Holy Spirit can never have forgiveness, but is guilty of an eternal sin' - for they had said, 'He has an unclean spirit.'

Then his mother and his brothers came; and standing outside, they sent to him and called him. A crowd was sitting around him; and they said to him, 'Your mother and your brothers and sisters are outside, asking for you.' And he replied, 'Who are my mother and my brothers?' And looking at those who sat around him, he said, 'Here are my mother and my brothers! Whoever does the will of God is my brother and sister and mother.'

Post Communion

Loving Father, we thank you for feeding us at the supper of your Son: sustain us with your Spirit, that we may serve you here on earth until our joy is complete in heaven, and we share in the eternal banquet with Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen
